American Dental Association Executive Offices

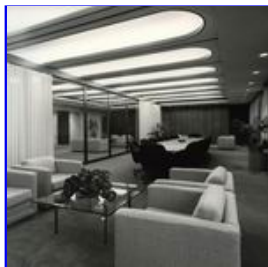

The expanding needs of this national organization required comprehensive studies and assessments in a variety of areas: Space utilization, mechanical upgrades, and most importantly, flexibility of present and future work patterns.

The main conference room and executive reception area required flexibility for formal and informal usage. Folding glass partitions were developed that can be stacked and stored in a custom wall system, opening the entire area for multi-usage.

The executive secretarial suite required a record filing system and workable workspace. A wood panel wall system was developed for secretarial storage.

The executive offices required office flexibility to incorporate changes. A wood panel wall system was developed on a modular concept that would permit changes to these suites.

The client's specifically-designed lighting system received an Award of Merit for Lighting Excellence from the Chicago Lighting Institute.
